Support The Rhode Island Civic Chorale and Orchestra (RICCO) … and Be Supported in Return!

Welcome from our Music Director Joshua W. Rohde…

It is my pleasure to introduce you to the Rhode Island Civic Chorale and Orchestra, a wonderful organization and vital part of the state's thriving arts community. RICCO has a distinguished reputation for presenting the great choral-orchestral masterworks that we know and love. It is my goal to continue this tradition, while bringing a fresh perspective to these classics, and presenting new works that, in their own right, should receive equal acclaim. We look forward to having you join us for this meaningful journey.

We are a community of singers dedicated to bringing choral music to southern New England since 1957. The Chorale strives to ensure a growing and vibrant arts culture through participation, outreach, education, and advocacy.

About RICCO

Since its inception in 1957, the Rhode Island Civic Chorale & Orchestra has been a community organization with singers from Rhode Island and neighboring Massachusetts, united in their love of choral music. The Chorale was founded by Dr. Louis Pichierri, Director of Music for Providence Public Schools. He conducted the Chorale from its inception to his passing in 1972. The Chorale has since sung under the direction of Ronald Morris, Robert Bass, and Edward Markward. Dr. Edward Markward was Music Director and Conductor of the Chorale for 32 years and was awarded the honorary title of Conductor Laureate upon his retirement in June 2019. Dr. Joshua W. Rohde is now the Chorale's Music Director and Conductor.

The Chorale has enjoyed continuous growth and community support over its history. It presents at least three major concerts each year, with a repertoire ranging from established choral masterpieces to works of our own time. We have also been privileged to perform original works by contemporary composers.

Nationally known soloists often have performed with the Chorale, and we encourage talented young soloists. Our annual Collegiate Vocal Competition provides the opportunity for young singers to perform with full chorus and orchestra.
